

The A-list

Ready to take the plunge? These medi-spas are some of the best in the business, blending medical know-how with the latest tech.

Artisan Aesthetic Clinics

QLD, NSW, ACT

A new player in the medi-spa arena, Artisan Aesthetic Clinics is a network of eight medically led centres, each with a resident cosmetic physician, as well as nurses and dermal clinicians. The group's medical director, Dr Linda Williams, has more than 17 years' experience in the cosmetic industry. She oversees the program of non-surgical treatments offered at the clinics, including cosmetic injectables, thread-lifting, body-contouring treatments, skin-needling and laser and light therapies. Artisan clinics also offer a full range of active skincare products.

Dr Linda Williams, medical director
www.artisanclinics.com

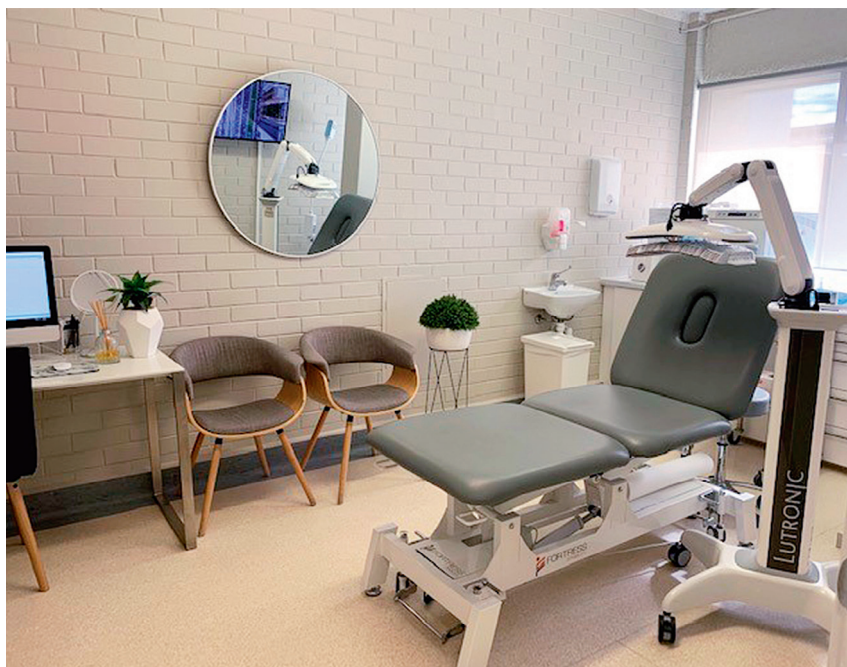

WORDS: RICKY ALLEN

COSMETIC GUIDE 69

Dr Guy Watts

WA

Modelled on the clinics in New York where specialist plastic surgeon Dr Guy Watts has worked, this practice offers a comprehensive range of non-invasive treatments. Procedures include injectables, peels, microneedling, microdermabrasion, sclerotherapy to eliminate spider veins and cryotherapy to freeze skin lesions. Among the devices used are the Ultraformer III (for skin-tightening) and light-therapy device Healite. Dr Watts puts a strong emphasis on staff education so you can trust all treatments are performed to the highest standard.
Dr Guy Watts, plastic surgeon
www.guywattsplasticsurgeon.com.au

Infinity Skin Clinic

NSW

Under the directorship of specialist plastic surgeon Dr Charles Cope, Infinity Skin Clinic has doctors at its two locations at all times. The in-demand medi-spas, set in Mosman and Surry Hills, Sydney, offer a great selection of non-surgical treatments. All patients are carefully assessed before a treatment plan is prescribed to ensure the best results possible.
Dr Charles Cope, director
www.infinityskin.com.au